CHAIR'S SUMMARY

I am pleased to report on the activities of the Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee (the Committee) for 2016. Over the past year, the Committee has worked diligently as we continue to fulfill our mandate in attracting and classifying candidates for appointment as justices of the peace.

In the summer of 2016, the Committee began an advertising process to fill 43 base court vacancies in every region of the province as requested by the Attorney General.

As in previous years, the Committee continued to refine our process by conducting a review of our policies and procedures. This exercise led to the implementation of identified enhancements to the process, including attracting and classifying candidates in accordance with our guidelines.

I would like to congratulate our entire Committee, including the judicial members, the lay members and all staff, on a job very well done. Through exceptional teamwork and a unique consensus-based decision-making model, we continue our role in the overall process of appointing justices of the peace.

Kaz Flinn
Chair

INTRODUCTION

Establishment of the Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee and its Mandate

The Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee (the “Committee”) was established in 2007 following amendments to the Justices of the Peace Act, R.S.O. 1990, C. J.4. The Committee is an independent and arm’s length agency of the Ministry of the Attorney General whose duties are to classify candidates for appointment as justices of the peace and to report those classifications to the Attorney General. Justices of the peace are appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council on the recommendation of the Attorney General. A copy of the Justices of the Peace Act is attached as Appendix A.

What is the Role of a Justice of the Peace?

A justice of the peace in Ontario is a judicial officer appointed pursuant to the Justices of the Peace Act. This Act affirms that a justice of the peace has judicial jurisdiction throughout Ontario and creates a framework under which justices of the peace are appointed and hold office, and also provides for the conditions under which they perform their duties. During this reporting period, there were over 325 justices of the peace in Ontario that were assigned to judicial responsibilities. The Ontario Court of Justice, one of Ontario’s two trial courts, is comprised of both provincially appointed judges and justices of the peace.

The judicial functions, powers and duties of a justice of the peace are set out in legislation and case law. Two of the more important legislative Acts which confer jurisdiction upon a justice of the peace are the Criminal Code and the Ontario Provincial Offences Act, but there are many other federal and provincial statutes and regulations that empower justices of the peace with legal authority and/or jurisdiction. Primarily, the two main areas of jurisdiction are criminal law and regulatory law (provincial offences).

Respecting criminal law, justices of the peace preside over virtually all judicial interim release (bail) hearings in the province and the majority of criminal remand courts. They also preside over other criminal hearings. They receive informations (the document which commences a criminal proceeding), confirm or consider the issuance of process by either a summons or a warrant and are responsible for receiving and considering the denial or issuance of search warrants and other matters of criminal process.

Justices of the peace exercise jurisdiction over the majority of provincial regulatory offences and municipal by-law prosecutions. As in criminal proceedings, justices of the peace receive informations and warrant applications, consider the issuance of process and preside at hearings and trials.

On appointment, a justice of the peace must cease other employment and refrain from any political activity. The Justices of the Peace Act states that a justice of the peace shall not engage in any other remunerative work without the approval of the Justices of the Peace Review Council. Justices of the peace must retire upon attaining the age of 65 years, but may continue in office until attaining the age of 75 years, subject to the annual approval of the Chief Justice of the Ontario Court of Justice.¹

The Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee

The Committee consists of a core committee of seven members, including a judge and a justice of the peace appointed by the Chief Justice of the Ontario Court of Justice, a justice of the peace appointed by the Chief Justice of the Ontario Court of Justice who is either the Senior Justice of the Peace Responsible for the Ontario Native Justice of the Peace Program or another justice of the peace familiar with aboriginal issues, and four lay members appointed by the Attorney General.

In addition, the Committee has seven regional committees, one for each of the regions of the Ontario Court of Justice. These regional committees consist of the regional senior judge and the regional senior justice of the peace or their delegates, not more than five other lay members appointed by the Attorney General, and a lawyer appointed by the Attorney General. The Attorney General has appointed one member in each region to act as the regional lead during the term of their appointment. The role of the regional lead is to coordinate the screening, interviewing, reference checking, and the classification process for justice of the peace candidates within their region.

The full complement of the Committee is 63 members. At different times throughout the 2016 calendar year, there were between 54 and 60 members on the Committee.

Initially the core committee met monthly with the regional leads joining their meetings every second month. As of April 2008, the core committee and regional leads meet jointly on a monthly basis. The purpose of these meetings is to review ongoing Committee business and discuss matters related to the Committee's policies and procedures.

Starting in 2008, the Committee holds an annual meeting of all members. This annual meeting provides an opportunity for the full Committee to review its activities over the past year, hear from speakers regarding topics relevant to the Committee's operations, and prepare any changes to be included in the next year's process.

A short biography of each of the members is attached as Appendix B.

¹ On June 2, 2008, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Assn. of Justices of the Peace of Ontario, Brenna Brown, Moreland Lynn and Meena Nadkarni, Applicants v. Attorney General of Ontario [2008] O.J. No. 2131, the Court ruled that every justice of the peace shall retire upon attaining the age of 65 years.

THE COMMITTEE'S PROCESS

Under the new vacancy-based process, the Committee continued to refine its process. The Committee made further revisions to its application form, policies and procedures, and selection criteria during the 2016 calendar year. All of these documents are available to the public through the Ontario Courts website at www.ontariocourts.ca/oci/jpaac. These documents are attached, respectively, as Appendix C, Appendix D and Appendix E.

From its inception in 2007 to December 31, 2016, the Committee has reviewed a total of 2,168 resumes that were on file with the Ministry prior to the original amendment to the Justices of the Peace Act establishing the Committee, and 12,779 applications submitted on the application form developed by the Committee. During the reporting period covered by this annual report (January 1 to December 31, 2016), applications were reviewed but not classified by the Committee as the 2016 process began in the summer and had not progressed to the classification stage by the end of 2016.

Activities

July 2016 Advertisement

In 2015, the Committee did not receive a letter from the Attorney General with a request to advertise justice of the peace vacancies.

A new justice of the peace application process started in the summer of 2016. By letter dated June 8, 2016, the Attorney General advised the Committee of justice of the peace vacancies in Barrie (3), Bracebridge, Brampton (3), Brantford, Brockville (bilingual), Chatham, Cornwall, Hamilton, London, Newmarket (2), Oshawa, Ottawa (2), Ottawa (bilingual-3), Peterborough, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie (bilingual), Simcoe, Sudbury, Thunder Bay, Timmins, Toronto (10), Toronto (bilingual) and Walkerton. The letter noted that the Chief Justice of the Ontario Court of Justice strongly encouraged the appointment of a candidate of Indigenous heritage or a person with an in-depth understanding of our Indigenous communities for the vacancies in Sarnia and Timmins.

The Committee received a subsequent letter dated July 19, 2016, from the Attorney General for additional vacancies in Brampton and Toronto.

Finally, a letter dated November 14, 2016, from the Attorney General advised of an additional vacancy in Thunder Bay.

The advertisement was placed in provincial newspapers, as well as in local, French language and native newspapers in the areas where the vacancies were located and ran for the period July 6 to July 20, 2016. Notice of the advertisement was also sent to those who had registered (numbering in the thousands) to receive email notification of advertised justice of the peace vacancies. In addition, the advertisement was distributed by the Ministry of the Attorney General's French Language Services Office through their network.

In September 2016, the application forms were distributed to the Committee members for review. In the first half of 2017, the Committee completed its review and classification of justice of the peace applications, including interviews, for all applications submitted for vacancies advertised in July 2016.

Policies and Procedures Review

During the winter and spring of 2016, the Committee continued a review of its policies and procedures, which included making revisions to the application form.
